Outside, the Women Cried: The Story of the Surrender by Chief Thunderchild's Band of Their Reserve Near Delmas, Saskatchewan, 1908 Jack Funk

The dominant society throughout history has consistently exploited the aboriginal people who stood between them and what they wanted. To understand the aboriginal people, one has to understand the history of what has happened. Too often history almost completely ignores the story of the aboriginal people. At best, they become a footnote to the history of the dominant people. This story attempts to tell a story from the aboriginal perspective. This is one small piece of Canadian history.
