“Could it not be possible that today something of infinite importance is taking place without people being aware of it. Something of supreme importance is taking place, although it is perceptible only to the eye of the spirit.”?Rudolf Steiner

For many, the new millennium has come to symbolize a new beginning?a time to stop, reassess, and question our direction as individuals and as a society. It is also a time to reexamine our philosophies and values. This collection of excerpts from his many books and lectures provides an excellent introduction to his spiritual, millennial vision. It includes commentary on the significance of the coming transformation of all areas of life, the importance of spiritual ecology, the transfiguration of the Earth, and the roles of angelic and other spiritual beings in our time.
